NATURE OF GLOBALIZATION

Perhaps you heard the phrase "The world is getting smaller." This is of primarily because of the primary driving force of the contemporary world which is globalization. The concept of globalization is complex and multifaceted. It is a phenomenon that occurs at multiple levels and a process that affects people differently (Abinales & Claudio, 2018)

Definitions

- Globalization means the onset of the borderless world. - Ohmae, 1992
- Globalization is a trans-planetary process or set of processes involving increasing liquidity and the growing multidirectional flows of people, objects, places, and information as well as the structures they encounter and create that are barriers to, or expedite, those flows. - Ritzer, 2015

Definitions

- Globalization is the intensification of worldwide social relations which link distant localities in such a way that local happenings are shaped by events occurring many miles away and vice versa - Giddens, 1990
- Globalization refers to the compression of the world and the intensification of consciousness of the world as a whole - Robertson, 1992

Definitions

- Globalization is the phenomenon by which markets and production in different countries are becoming increasingly interdependent due to the dynamics of trade in goods and services and the flows of capital technology. - OECD, 2002
- Globalization implies the weakening of state sovereignty and state structures. - Beck, 2000

Definitions

- Globalization is the establishment of the global market free from socio-political control - Nikitin and Elliott, 2003
- Globalization is "de-territorialization" or the growth of "superterritorial" relations between people.- Scholte, 2000
- Globalization is a process of cross-cultural interaction, exchange and transformation. - Cooppan, 2001

Definitions

The best scholarly description of globalization is given by globalization expert Manfred Steger (Abinales & Claudio, 2018). Steger descrived globalization as the "expansion and intensification of social relations and consciousness across world-time and world-space."

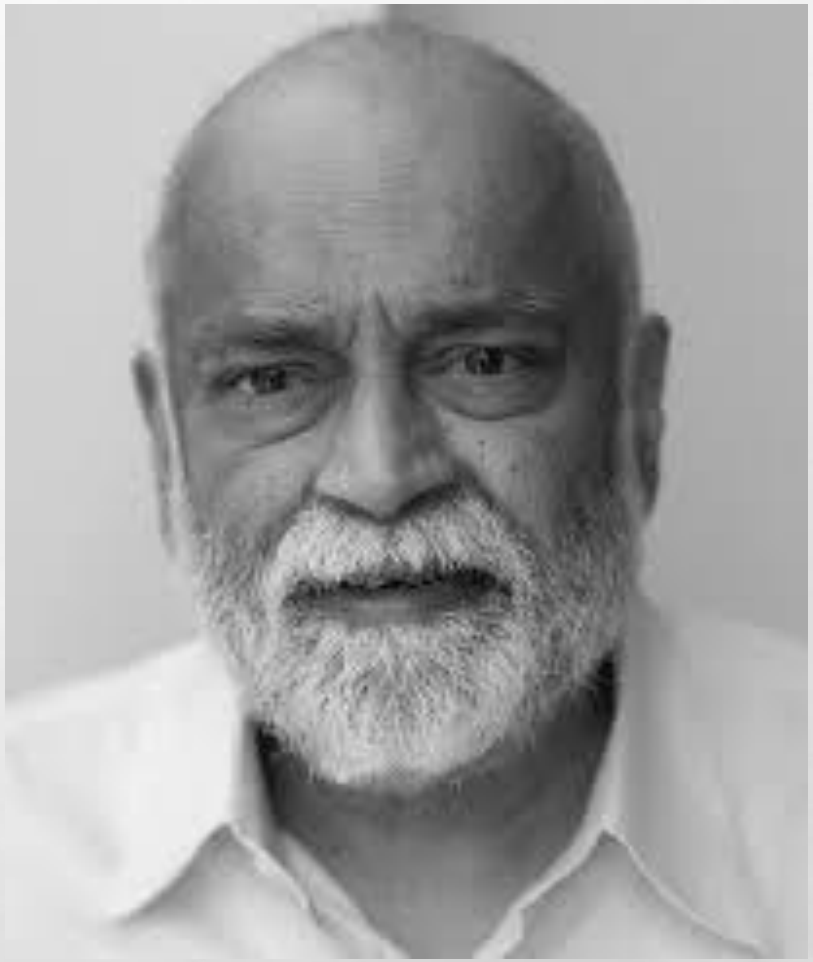
SCAPES OF GLOBALIZATION

Arjun Appadurai

US-Based cultural anthropologist born and educated in Mumbai, India. Appadurai moved to the US in 1967, completing a BA at Brandeis, followed by a PhD at the University of Chicago. His most important work, at least from the perspective of critical theory, is Modernity at Large: Cultural Dimensions of Globalization (1996), which offers a fivefold theory of scapes, that taken together, comprise the contemporary social imaginary.



Scapes of Globalization

1. Ethnoscape – refers to the global movement of people
2. Mediascape –refers to the flow of culture
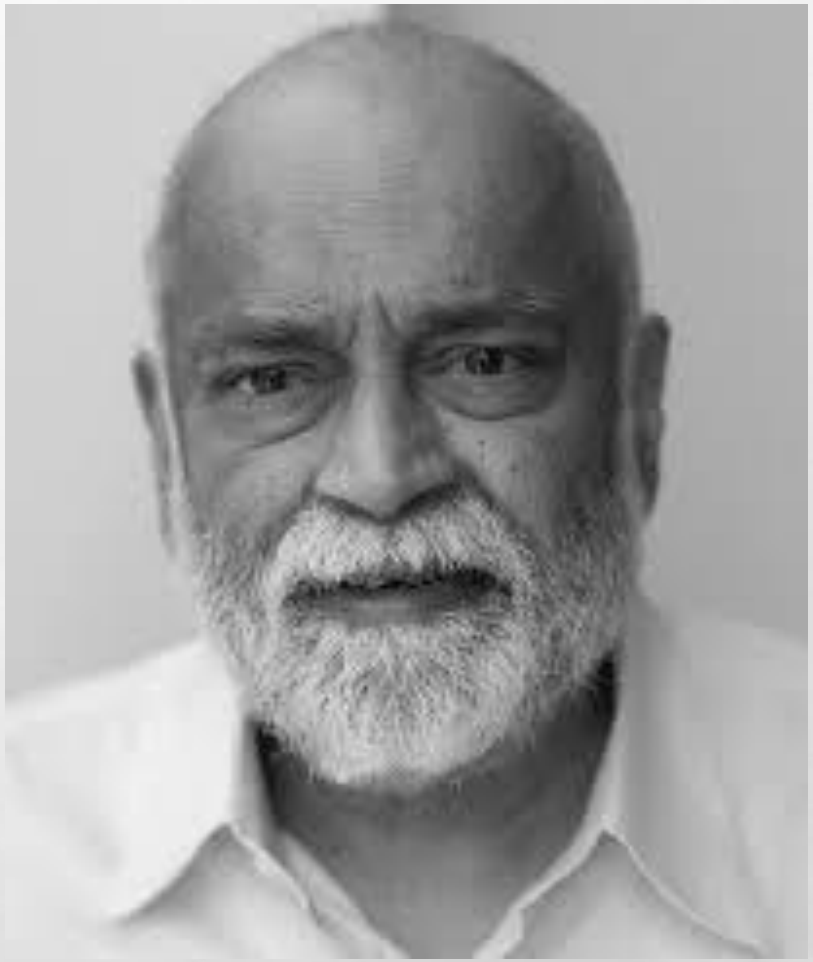
3. Technoscape – refers to the circulation of mechanical goods and software.
4. Financescape – denotes the global circulation of money.
5. Ideoscape – is the realm where political ideas move around.



Identify to what scape of globalization the following statements are associated …

1. An individual posting her or his personal views on Facebook for public consumption.

2. Apple's iPhone is just one example of how the movement of technologies across boundaries can radically affect day-to-day life for people all along the commodity chain.

3. Tourism typically puts people from developed parts of the world in contact with people in the developing world, which creates both opportunities and challenges for all involved.

4. Brazillian telenovelas may provide entertainment on long-distance African bus trips, Bollywood films are shown in Canadian cinemas, and people from around the world regularly watch mega-events such as the World Cup and the Olympics from wherever they may live.

5. The pace of the global transfer of money has only accelerated and to day transactions in the New York Stock Exchange, the Nikkei index, and other such finance hubs have nearly immediate effects on economies aroud the world.

Theories on Globalization : Homogeneity and Heterogeneity

Culture of Imperialism

"Streets of Madrid?" No, it is the Vigan Heritage Village, an example European influence in architecture.

The Sushi. Who can say no to this famous Japanese gastronomic treat?

Media Imperialism

Netflix and the society. The popularity of his software application creates the “image of exclusivity” of the subscribers.

Neoliberalism

A Forbes article states that “Almost half of the world’s wealth is now owned by just one percent of the population. “This is terrifying!”

Mcdonaldization

Fast-food menu saves time in the most convenient way creating enough time for other things to do at the same time creates business opportunities. These fast-food wars benefited us in many ways.
